Congratulations to the Class of 2025!

PVM HS celebrates talented senior student musicians

More than a dozen seniors from Paul V. Moore High School were recently honored for their dedication and contributions to the district's music program. During the final concerts of the 2024-25 school year, these students received scholarships, awards and other recognitions for their hard work.

Those honored include Campbell Bagley, Dalton Bramer, Kelli Griep, Ashley Haskell, Susanna Hipp, Sara Hulbert, Bella Mirizio, Grace Myers, Sydney Saunders, Landon Stevens, Abigail Sundet, Luca Szatanek, Theresa Tancredi, Dylan Wick and Shelby Wilson.

Many of the students were active members of both the chorus and band programs. Music educators Ron Haldeman, Veronica Mainville and Mark Woods applauded the students' passion for music, leadership and dedication to the CSSD band program.

"The scholarships were announced at the students' final concert, which publicly recognized them for their talents, abilities, dedication and hard work," said Woods. "The opportunity to celebrate deserving students for their accomplishments is made possible by private donors and by the Central Square Music Booster organization, which helps fund the scholarships."

In total, $2,500 in scholarships were awarded to the class of 2025 seniors, who were also recognized in the commencement program.

"We wish the class of 2025 all the best as they chase their goals and follow their dreams," Woods added.

CiTi New Vision Celebrates Graduates About to Build Their Future

New Vision celebrated 69 graduating seniors, including more than a handful from CSSD, at SUNY Oswego during the Center for Instruction, Technology & Innovation's end-of-the-year ceremony.

In total, seven students from Central Square crossed the stage, signifying their completion of the New Vision Specialized Careers or Allied Health programs.

From the Specialized Career program, CSSD celebrated Nicole Reale and Hannah Reichard. From the Allied Health program, the following students hailed from Paul V. Moore High School: Mikayla Burns, Katelynn Dearstine, Madelyn Kelley, Liliana McClowry and Savannah Staats.

The New Vision programs at CiTi are designed for high school seniors interested in pursuing careers in healthcare, law, public safety, government, engineering, veterinary science and more. The experience combines strong academics with real-life experiences at a variety of community rotation sites. In addition, the students receive 12 SUNY Oswego credits for four college courses, saving them around $3,000 in tuition.

P-TECH ceremony honors 2 CSSD seniors

Two Central Square seniors were recently recognized for finishing the high school phase of the P-TECH program during their senior ceremony. Brian Purdy and Wyatt Laux were both honored as they prepare to continue into the final two years of the program at Onondaga Community College.
